Inheriting an Effective Regulatory Environment

By Jorge Gomez,
Commissioner of Insurance

When Governor Doyle asked me to be Wisconsin's Insurance Commissioner, I did so knowing that I was coming to a state agency known for its efficiency and effectiveness. Everything I had heard about the functioning of insurance markets in Wisconsin has been borne out by my experiences in the first six months on the job. The insurance industry is a vital part of Wisconsin's economy, will contribute significantly to the state's future economic growth and needs to be encouraged by an effective system of regulation to continue in that role.

One message that has come through loud and clear is that the insurance industry is important to Wisconsin's economy. As I have been meeting with insurers and agents, I have seen first hand how many well paying, stable jobs they provide in their communities. As I meet with Governor Doyle and the rest of the Cabinet to look at economic development opportunities in the state, I have shared information about the positive impact of the industry on Wisconsin's economy.

While many of you are already familiar with the numbers, they bear repeating simply because of how they document the role of insurers. There are more than 250 insurers domiciled in the state of Wisconsin, making Wisconsin domiciled insurers national leaders in every sense. Those companies write annual business of $34.9 billion nationally. More than 60,000 people are employed by insurers in the state and the average salaries paid in the industry are higher than the overall state average. Furthermore, the financial impact of those employed by the insurance industry make a significant contribution to the state in terms of spending power, personal income taxes and other taxes.

This is also an industry that continues to grow, even during slow economic times. While the growth may not be as spectacular as the high tech industries, it is constant and the jobs stay. We know of several insurers in Wisconsin who continue to add significantly to their workforce and continue to look for new business opportunities that will allow them to expand even further.

The Office of the Commissioner of Insurance (OCI) also contributes its share to keeping the state fiscally sound. OCI is self-funded and does not draw on state general purpose revenues. We are funded by a combination of licensing fees, agent listing fees and direct company charges for examinations. And perhaps, most significantly during these tough budget times, 100% of the $89 million of premium taxes paid by insurers last year goes directly to the state's general fund.

We will be asked to take our share of staff and other budget reductions along with other state agencies. But the office must continue to have an effective regulatory presence, even in these difficult budgetary times. I consider it to be critically important that while many national insurers are dealing with financial difficulties, OCI has the resources to continue to monitor insurer performance.

I am fortunate to have inherited a quality

Agents Must Assist Consumers with WIP

In today's homeowner's insurance market where many insurers are tightening their underwriting standards, the Wisconsin Insurance Plan (WIP) becomes an important source of property insurance for those property owners who have lost or have been rejected for coverage. Section Ins. 4.10(19)(d), Wis. Adm. Code requires agents to assist their clients, who are rejected or are nonrenewed by a property insurer, in obtaining coverage from the WIP.

It has come to OCI's attention that some agents are apparently violating this very important provision of the code. For example, some agents have not properly completed WIP applications for their clients or have provided their clients only with blank WIP applications and left the clients to fill the applications out and submit them themselves. In other situations, we have been told that an agent might advise a client that they do not take applications for WIP coverage. None of these actions are appropriate and are a violation of section Ins. 4.10 (19) (d), Wis. Adm. Code and could result in administrative action. Agents are therefore strongly encouraged to cooperate fully with WIP's requirements.

Applying for coverage from WIP is relatively easy. The WIP's Internet site, <http://www.wisinsplan.com>, contains clear instructions and an application that can be printed and used in consultation with the applicant. The WIP states that the customer's signature is not required on applications.

Licensed insurance agents in Wisconsin are required to inform and assist customer's who need the coverage offered by WIP.

According to s. Ins. 4.10 (19) (d), Wis. Adm. Code, insurance agents shall assist applicants who need to apply for coverage under the plan and shall submit applications that meet the requirements of sub. (9). Agents shall follow the rules and procedures of the Plan. As licensed insurance agents in Wisconsin, it is a producer's duty to comply with the law.

If there are questions about WIP or WIP procedures you are asked to contact WIP or Drew Hunkins at OCI at (608) 266-7418, or drew.hunkins@oci.state.wi.us.

Reasonably Precise Reason for Nonrenewal Property and Casualty Insurance Policies

The OCI has received a number of inquiries and complaints regarding nonrenewal issues for property and casualty business. Insurers are reminded that s. 631.36 (6), Wis. Stat., requires that a notice of nonrenewal state "with reasonable precision the facts on which the insurer's decision is based."

The following are examples of reasons that are not reasonably precise: "does not meet our underwriting guidelines," "unacceptable credit history," "motor vehicle record," and "claim history." The insurer would need to add a list to these general reasons in order to provide facts that are reasonably precise. In addition to satisfying the statute, the nonrenewal reason informs the policy-holder exactly what the insurer considers important.

In addition to satisfying the statute, the nonrenewal reason informs the policyholder exactly what the insurer considers important.

If the reason for nonrenewal is that the risk does not meet underwriting guidelines, then the condition that breaches the insurer's guidelines should be stated. For example, if a building has a poorly maintained roof, the notice needs to list that condition in order to be reasonably precise. Likewise, if the reason for nonrenewal is because of an individual's motor vehicle record, the notice needs to list the specific driving related violations and accidents.

The statute indicates that no notice of nonrenewal is effective unless it so states the facts. Therefore, if the nonrenewal notice does not state with reasonable precision the facts on which the insurer's decision is based, the notice is not effective and the insurer would be required to renew the policy. In addition, section 631.36 (7) (a) 2., Wis. Stat. states that a notice of cancellation or nonrenewal is not effective unless the notice provides for adequate instruction to the policyholder for applying for insurance through a risk-sharing plan under Chapter 619, Wis. Stats., if such a risk-sharing plan exists for the coverage provided under the contract.

If there are questions regarding nonrenewal of a property and casualty insurance policy, please contact Rhonda Peterson at (608) 267-7186 or at Rhonda.Peterson@oci.state.wi.us.

Options for Insurers Who Want to File Policy Forms and Rates Electronically with OCI

OCI has two options for insurers that wish to file policy forms and rates electronically. The new system called ProFile, allows insurers to prepare and submit filings that automatically update the OCI rate and form filing system. Electronic edit checks assure companies that the filing is complete prior to submission. Insurers receive electronic notification of the approval of their filings via the Internet and any required correspondence is completed using e-mail. Revisions to the initial filings can also be submitted electronically. The system also provides the capability for electronic status checking via the Internet. Insurers may obtain further information by contacting John Alles at (919) 933-9571 or <http://www.innovativeit.com>.

Wisconsin also accepts rate and form filings in all lines of business through the System for Electronic Rate and Form Filing (SERFF). Insurers can submit filings to all 50 state insurance departments through SERFF. In July, OCI received 27 percent of all rate and form filings through these two methods. Insurers can contact Susan Ezalarab at sue.ezalarab@oci.state.wi.us for further information about SERFF or visit <http://www.serffcentral.org>.

Kevin Zwart: Keeping Companies and Agents Honest

By Scott Larrivee
OCI Public Information

Some readers may know Kevin Zwart; others may wish that they did not. That's because Kevin's job is to ensure that insurance companies and agents are held accountable for their actions.

"You like to do more educating because then you don't have to do as much enforcement."

Zwart is one of OCI's Insurance Examiners and as such, his job involves regulation and enforcement of Wisconsin insurance laws. Some of Zwart's duties include the approval and disapproval of policy forms, investigating consumer complaints, performing market conduct exams, and providing information to the public.

Zwart not only educates consumers about their rights; he also educates companies about what types of policies are legal or illegal to sell in Wisconsin.

"You like to do more educating because then you don't have to do as much enforcement," Zwart said.

"Insurance examiners are often notified by consumers, advocacy groups or other industry personnel to look into allegations. Examiners identify and document behavior of companies and agents that may be contrary to insurance regulations, which serve as a source of consumer protection. Then, between management and our legal department we could either initiate an investigation or simply close the file because the allegations could not be confirmed," said Zwart. "If we do start an investigation, the first step is to allow companies, agents or agencies a chance to prove their actions were not illegal. If they are unable to do so, OCI will take administrative action."

Before he arrived at OCI in December 2001, Kevin worked as an insurance agent and with the Board on Aging and Long Term Care. While at the Board, Kevin was a Medigap insurance counselor. When the examiner opportunity became available, he took the job, seeing it as a way he could better make a difference.

"OCI has more of a focus on regulation and the agency has an incredible depth of regulatory experience an examiner can use to be effective," Zwart said.

A carryover interest for Zwart continues to be relations between insurance companies and the elderly.

"...we have to focus on vulnerable areas because we don't want agents and companies to cross those regulatory lines."

---

"One of the things I'm trying to do is get more into the actions of agents dealing with the elderly," Zwart said. "The elderly have had their lifetime to generate lots of assets. Helping to protect those assets is one of an insurance agent's jobs, which also makes it a significant fiduciary responsibility. You want to make sure they do that appropriately."

---

"There are times when people don't realize how much they are being taken advantage of."

In that sense, he performs a watchdog function, but Zwart acknowledges that he can only do so much.

"It's hard to watch the entire industry so we have to focus on vulnerable areas because we don't want agents and companies to cross those regulatory lines," he said.

Familiar with the industry and licensed for 15 years, Zwart is well versed in understanding insurance from a variety of angles, which makes him a good fit at OCI.

"Most other states have examiners that specialize in certain regulatory functions, here we do all of it," he said. "That structure creates a quality workforce. I feel its better because then you know many different components of the industry."

Zwart says working across issue areas allows examiners to see insurance loopholes.

"There are times when people don't realize just how much they are being taken advantage of," said Zwart.

That is why this agency is so important to the insurance consumers of Wisconsin.

Commissioner

well aware of consumer protection needs.

Among the issues I am especially interested in are the use of credit history by property and casualty insurers, suitability of life and annuity sales and credit insurance.

As I have already shared with many of you, my father was an insurance agent in California. As a child, I often accompanied him as he went door-to-door, collecting premiums. I learned that agents provide service to their policyholders. I have also been an attorney for 17 years, starting as an assistant district attorney in Milwaukee County. I was also a partner in the litigation practice at Michael, Best and Friedrich and, immediately prior to accepting appointment as Insurance Commissioner, the General Counsel and Vice President of United Government Services.

I look forward to the opportunity to meet with you and share in the discussion of the challenges and issues that face the business of insurance in Wisconsin. I am also very interested in hearing your ideas as to how we can best continue to grow the insurance industry in the state.
